A PETE DAY IN HAYTI.

The Moniteur Haytien, the official journal of his most sombre Majesty, gives the following details of the celebration of the anniversary of the coronation of the Emperor and Empress, which we trans-

The anniversary of the consecration of their Majesties was celebrated with a rare magnificence, on the 18th of April. It was a grand sight to behold the whole population of the capital, animated with the most noble enthusiasm, eagerly second the seal of the authorities, in giving to the solemnities the most imposing appearance.

On the 17th, at sunset, a salvo of a hundred cannon shots, executed by all the forts of the capital, announced the fete. The people, for many weeks, had been impatiently expecting the splendor of this great day. They manifested their sentiments of love for their Majesties by song and dance. The longer the time since the epoch of the foundation of the empire, the easier it becomes to prove that all the solemnities the nation gives to their Majesties, are evidences of a more lively affection.

On the evening of the 17th, the city was illuminated on all points. The imperial palace and the public edifices were effulgent with light. The next day, the 18th, at 4 o'clock in the morning, the general call was sounded. At 6 o'clock the capital was already decorated on all sides with flags, banners, and palm branches, and the citizens flocked toge ther on the public ways, en route for the Cathedral church. At 64 o'clock, the regiments of the Imperia Guard ranged themselves in the court yard of the palace, and the troops of the garrison on the Place Petion. At 7 o'clock these troops, under the command of the Count de Petionville, Governor of the Capital, departed from the Place Petion, and went to form in square on the north side of the Church square. They were composed of the 1st, 3d, sth, 9th, 10th, 11th, 12th and 28th Regiments of Infantry. At 7½ o'clock the grenadiers and light infantry—Chipters à pied—of the Imperial Guard debouched in fine order, with music at their head on the Market square, and took their station opposite the church. The imperial artillery occupied the esplanade of the intendant, and there ranged a battery. At 7½ o'clock, the great bodies of state, the consuls, the functionaries, and employes of the different departments, the pupils of the government schools, accompanied by their directors and professors, the merchants, the officers of the imperial navy and of the port, and the officers of health, presented themselves promptly at the church, and occupied in the nave the places assigned to them by the masters of ceremonies.

The interior of the church was admirably decorated with hangings in the national colors, with flags surmounted by eagles and garnished with gold fringes. A tent of national colors, surmounted by standards, connected the northern fugade of the temple with the opposite houses. The crowd lined the parapets of the terrace, and the avenues of the church were filled with a considerable concourse of citizens.

At eight o'clock their majesties left the palace, in the midst of a salvo of artillery, of music, and of the bells of the Cathedral church. They occupied a carriage drawn by eight splendid horses, crowned with golden eagles. The cortege arrived at the church square in the following order:

The Mounted Grenadiers of the Guard.

The Officers of the General Staff, Major, and the Officers unattached to any Corps.

The King at Arms, the Herald-at-Arms, and Criers. A platon of six Aides-de-Camp of the Emperor.

The Light Dragoons closed the Cortege.

Their Majestics, having arrived at the entry to the church square, were received by his Royal Highness. Monsignor the Prince de Jaemel, commandant of the Province of the West, who had the customary honors paid to them by the fine army drawn up in front of the temple. They then alighted from the carriage, amid the acclamation of the crowd and of the troops, and were received by the clergy at the door of the church.

Their Majesties, wearing the crowns, preceded by the grand master of the ceremonies, by the grand chamberlain, by the ministers and imperial princes, took their place on the throne erected to the left of the grand altar, on a platform covered with silk. His Majesty the Emperor was clad in the imperial mantle of scarlet velvet, besprinkled with bees, and Her Majesty the Empress wore a cloak of extreme richness. The left wing of the church was occupied by the foot grenadiers of the guard, and the right by the foot grenadiers of the guard, and the right by the light infantry.

The divine office was celebrated with the greatest pomp, by Monsignor, the Grand Chaplain of the Emperor, and vicar-general, with the music from their Majesties' chapel. At the consecration, and at the Te Deum, a salvo of twenty-one guns was fired.

After the religious ceremony their Majesties left the church, amid the noise of a hundred guns, and thea colamations of the people and army, and made a tour of the city. The great bodies of State, the functionaries and the employes of the different services repaired to the palace immediately after the mass.

Their Majesties returned to the palace in the midst of cries of Vive l'Empereur and of Vive l'Imperatrice, and with the report of a salute fired by the imperial fleet. They then went to take their seats in the Throne-hall, the decorations of which—uniting everything of the greatest perfection in art—are of a dazzing magnificence. Their Majesties, after having received the constituted bodies, and the consults of foreign powers, retired into their private apartments. They afterwards re-appeared in the Mars' saloon, where there was a concert.

In the evening the city was illuminated, and national dances were executed on the square of the inner cemetery, where a great number of tents were pitched. [The non-official report adds that their Majesties stopped to witness the dancing, and distributed money to the different societies assembled under the tents.]

On the next day—the 19th—at three o'clock in the afternoon, the western hall of the imperial palace was filled with high functionaries, generals, and the most dite of the society of the capital, invited to a grand banquet. In the northern hall, assembled their Majesties, the Princess Olive, the ladies of the court, in grand costume, and the great dignitaries.

The Emperor, the Empress, and the Princess Olive, were seated at the northern extremity of the table. Besides the members of the imperial family, we noticed Messieurs the consuls of the foreign powers, the ministers, and the high dignitaries. We also noticed among the invited guests the ladies and citizens of Miragoane, who had come to the capital to attend the fête of the previous day. At the dessert the following toats, successively an anounced by his Excellency the Count de Champagne, grand master of the ceremonies, were drank:

By his Majesty the Emperor—

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I hasten to express to his Majesty, and to this while ascembly, our most sincere thanks for the honor just done to us by his Majesty the Emperor, who has had the goodness to propose the health of the foreign powers in this country. We are very grateful for the compliment paid to us; and that we may immediately give a proof of this gratitude. I have the bonor to propose to you to drink the nealth of his Majesty the Emperor of Hayti—(Vice V Empereur?) May he during many years watch over the public liberties, and reign is the nearts of his subjects! May he enjoy the friendship of foreign powers, and possess, as he deserves, the respect of the whole world!

By M. the Baron Brutus De Jean-Simon, President of the Chamber of Deputies:—
To her Majesty the Empress. Madamo—The practice of your noble virtues is one of the finest jewels of the crews: the nation, proud of the precious qualities which adorn its august Queen, felicitates her therefor, and cries through the organ of its representatives—Vice Vimprovirie!

By His Grace the Duke de la Bande-du-Nord, Minister of the Interior—"Without glory and without rank among civilized aations, must toil for glory and between her and the foreign powers.

Each toast was hailed with visus and salutes from the imperial artillery,
At sunset, whilst the music of the guard resounded in the apartments of the palace, resplendent with illumination, the forts of the capital announced the close of the fite by a salvo of a hundred guns.

As a finale to the foregoing official account of the great ceremonials, we give the following decidedly rich paragraphs from the sermon of the Abbe Pelletier, before the Emperor and Empress:—

"A court is never seen under a more pompous and more pleasing aspect than when the graces of the Queen lend new charms to the greatness of the King.
The august majesty of the monarch appears to need being tempered by the gentier and more attractive majesty of the Queen. We may compare the King to the sun, which dazzles by its splendor and which consumes by its heat; and the Queen to that star on which we may fix our eyes, and which recalls to the mind the agreeable ideas of dew and freshness. Let us therefore adore the designs of Divine Wisdom which has seated on our soveretgn's throne all the virtues, which are its firmest and most lasting supports."

News from Cuba.

We have received files of Havana papers to the 22d instant. Their contents, however, are entirely defi-cient of anything of interest to our readers.

Colonel Don Ramon Canedo has been appointed to the military and political governship of the port of Cardenas, instead of Senor Don Manuel Hector, resigned.

A central Junta (association) has been formed in Havana for the purpose of collecting contributions in aid of the impoverished peasantry of the province of Gallicia, in Spain.

The expertation of sugar from the port of Havana for the first three months of the present year amounts to 250,370 boxes, and for the same period of the preceding year it was but 231,402, showing an increase in favor of 1853 of 18,868 boxes.

Theatrical and Husical.

Bowert Theatric—The entertainments announced for to-morrow evening consist of the "Bride of Lammermoor," with Mr. Eddy as Edgar, and Mrs. Parker as Lucy Ashton. Miss G. Davies will dance the Pas de Bloomer, and the comedy of the "Wonderful Woman," will terminate the entertainments. The Bowery theatre, under the able management of Mr. Stevens, is going on prosperously.

minate the entertainments. The Bowery theatre, under the able management of Mr. Stevens, is going on prosperously.

Broadway Theatre.—The splendid tragedy of "Macbeth" will be produced to-morrow evening, for the last time. Those who have not seen it as recently presented, at an enormous cost for dresses and magnificent scenery, should avail themselves of this, the last opportunity of doing so. The amusements will close with "Married and Settled." Conway, Mad. Ponisi, and other eminent artists will appear.

Burrey's Theatre.—Those distinguished artists, Mr. and Mrs. Williams, are engaged for a few nights longer, and will appear to morrow evening in the same pieces as those performed with such success on Saturday night—"Irish Assurance," "Uncle Pat's Cabin," and "On Gal." Mr. and Mrs. Williams are every night received with enthusiasm, and deservedly so. The first is a first-rate representative of the Irish peasantry, and the last is, pethaps, without a rival in the States in Yaokee character; but she is good in every part she undertakes, and keeps the audience in continual laughter.

NATIONAL THEATER—Mr. Godsil, who was a long time attached to the Bowery theatre, will appear to morrow evening, for the first time in this theatre, as Claude Melnotte, in the beautiful play of the "Lady of Lyons," Mrs. H. F. Nichols as Pauline. Mr. Lingard will sing "My Love is Like the Red, Red Rose." and Miss Partington will dance. The drama of a "Desperate Game" will follow, and all will close with the "Post of Honor."

WALLACK'S THEATER——To morrow evening Mr. Chayles Wallack, the treasurer, and son of the distinguished actor, takes his benefit, when a programme of great attraction will be presented for the amusement of his friends. The pieces selected are the "Stranger" and "My Aunt." It should be recollected that Mr. Wallack will appear as the Stranger and as Diek Dashall in the farce of "My Aunt." Those who wish to patronize the treasurer, who is very affable and kind in his manners, and who can at the same time only a rich dra and who can at the same time enjoy a rich dramatic treat, should visit Wellack's to morrow.

Sr. Charles Theatre —There will be two performances—one in the afternoon at 3 o'clock, and the other in the evening at a quarter to 8, for the benefit of Mr. Heusted, the treasurer. The programme he offers for the amusement of his friends, is one that cannot fail to crowd the house. There will be six pieces performed during the day.

American Museum.—This place of amusement is doing a fine business, the saloons being crowded every day of the past week. The pieces selected for to-morrow afternoon are "Mischief Making," and the "Irish Tutor," and in the evening "St. Mary's Eve." The vicitors seem delighted with the Happy Family.

The Hipponeous —The great patronage which has been extended to this establishment continues unabated, and the performances are received with the utmost enthusiasm. The programme for to-morrow evening comprises many attractive features.

Chrysty's Minstinus.—This undoubtedly popular band of Ethiopean delineators advertise an excellent selection of songs, dances, instrumental pieces, and burlesques for to-morrow evening.

Wich's Minstinus, whose performances are always re-on songs, cances, instrumental pieces, and burlesques for to morrow evening.

Wood's Minerhals, whose performances are always re-ceived with great delight and approbation, have provided a well selected negro amusement for to morrow evening. Campbell is a good manager.

New OFLEARS SERENATIONS — This well known and highly talented band of negro performers are to make their first appearance, since their return from California, to morrow evening, at the Chinese Rooms, in an exceedingly attractive performance.

tive performance.

Owns' Alvine Rambles.—This novel and very amusing entertainment continues to be visited by large and highly respectable assemblages.

Niblo's Saltoon.—Mrs. Gillingham Bostwick is to give a grard concert to morrow night at Niblo's. She will be assisted by Sigror Strint, Julius Stede, Mrs. Schmidt, Mr. Pychowski, Mr. Noll, and a grand orchestra. The selections are from Bellint, Donisetti, Meyerbeer and Bishop.

Mr. C. W. Charks, the taleated actor, and stage manager of the Museum, we understand, is to get a complimentary benefit from his friends, at Niblo's, in a few weeks.

Police Intelligence.

Arrest of a Notorious Fickpooles — At the departure of the steamship Baltis, from the foot of Canal street, yesterday noon, quite an assemblage was present on the dock, bioding their friends a parting farewell, and among them were Mrs. Farsh Eggleston, of No. 10 Fifth avenue, who detected the hand of a thief extracting her purefrom her pocket containing two five dulls bilts and same seven shillings in small change. Mr Joseph Battel, merchant of No. 168 South street, saw the accused with the pure in his hand. Officer A V. Davis, of the Fifth ward, who is very attentive on such occasions, being near at hand, seized hold of the rogue, recovered the property, and conveyed him to the shallon house, and from theme to the Polica Court, where, in the temporary absence of the police megistrate, Jurge Ecebe was acoplied to, who took the complaint against the prisoner, and held him to ball in the sum of $300 to answer the charge. The thief gave the name of John Soeider, but that is not his name, as he was idectified by diffeer Pattison and others, at the Police Court, to be Corde Otten, who some four or five pears ago was arrested at the Post Office, caught in the act of picking a gentleman's pocket of a museful box, valued at $20. At that time he procured ball, since which period he has not appeared for trial. Yesterday, however, he was caught again in the act of perpetrating another larceny of the same character. After Judge Beebe fixed the ball, Judge Bogart admitted the accused to ball and a German grocer in Whitehall street, named Jerkins, entered into the required bonds, and the thief was again turred at large, to prosecute further depredations upon the community. In such cases, when the offender is caught in the very act of committing the crime, and no doth exists of his guilt, the magistrate would be justified in refusing to admit the party to ball; as by admitting them to ball i

Catherine Frent.—The ferry house and dock of the above are undergoing at present new alterations and improvements. On the site of the old fish market, at the foot of Catherine street, a new dock, ferry house and landing place are in course of erection, and when finished the present ferry house will be demolished, and another rarge of buildings, with a cock extended further into the river, will be built in its place, to corcespond with the new structure that is now in progress. The landing place belooging to Catherine ferry, on this side of the East river, will then be three hundred and fifty feet in length, with two docks, and other arrangements similar to those at the Fulton ferry. As an additional improvement, the building will be about twenty feet further back towards the river than the one now in existence, which, besides the advantage to the ferry of thus possessing deeper water for their boats, will be of vast accommodation to the street, from the consequent increased width. This will be very desirable, for with the increased amount of shipping in our port, many vessels of large tonnage land their eargoes and lie along-side the place further up the river, thus causing a much greater traffic along that section of the city than used formerly to be the case.
The increased facilities for storage in consequence of the warehouses that have been lately erected along the upper part of South street, have likewise partly assisted in attracting shipping higher up the river. Another cause has been the numerous sectioned docks that new line the shore on this side from Jefferson street, nearly to Catherine ferry, and which are in constant use, it being rare to find one vacant. The increasing trade and population of Williamsburg are to have a further accommodation in a new ferry, for which purpose the preliminary operations have been begun. The location will be a few yards above the new Ca
